- During the period 2001 – 2002 I was working with a Project Team that was implementing a new way of working in our Cash Centres; a new digital CCTV system was installed whereby each processing table (and therefore every clerk). To prevent losses a more robust system by which the clerk performs each task was re-written to allow the CCTV to 'see' more of what was being done by the clerk. This allowed for mistakes to be identified and corrected. Again avoiding a loss. This had the added benefit of giving the Cash Centre the evidence to rebuke claims made against them. The CCTV system paid for itself within two years.
