Penny

I have just spoken to the solicitor dealing with this case. The question raised by our barrister in his advice states with regards the Eleanor Nixon statement is as follows,

" The witness statement does not reveal a problem with Horizon's reliability but rather a mistake that can easily be made with the layout of the screen. It may be that the alleged layout problem is something which Fujitsu are aware of and has been rectified. A copy of Mrs Nixon's statement should be forwarded to Fujitsu for their comments. It should also be straightforward to ascertain whether or not Mrs Misra was falling into the trap identified by Mrs Nixon. The error described would presumably create a cash shortage matched by an equal surplus elsewhere".

A response to this question by Fujitsu would be appreciated, however brief.
