Laura,

Your extra background on Horizon has finally come out of the box. To confirm Spads have been clear with SoS we shouldn't get involved in the issue – it's a matter of law – and he has ok'd this approach.

Hi George – here is the original advice on the Horizon issue as requested.

Just to clarify (because this was over a month ago):

- The BBC Panorama programme hasn't aired and we are not sure if it will do now
- There have been 20 applications to the Criminal Cases Review Commission. We understand (privately) that the CCRC will be unlikely to reach a decision on any case before Christmas
- The mediation scheme is still in operation but many people are requesting to "delay" their mediation until a "new Government inquiry" has been established. They are doing so on the advice of the JFSA. Post Office are considering how to handle but it is in no-one's interests (other than JFSA and their campaign) to have this issue prolonged.

As I said, very happy to chat through any of this with you or with SoS.

L

Subject: Post Office: submissions to Baroness Neville-Rolfe on Network Transformation and on Horizon / BBC Panorama

Hi Andrew, Charlie

cc. PS/Secretary of State, PS/George Freeman, PS/SpAds

Please find attached two submissions for Baroness Neville-Rolfe. These cover two current (urgent) issues for Post Office which we mentioned to the Minister in our intro meeting today and which we would like to cover in a little more detail in our catch up tomorrow. Grateful if these could go in tonight's box (and thank you for allowing us an extra hour!)

The first covers Network Transformation, and in particular, the next steps for Post Office branches which have not engaged in the transformation programme. (First Word attachment plus PowerPoint annex)

The second covers the Post Office Horizon mediation scheme, with particular focus on the BBC Panorama programme on 22 June which is due to feature this issue. (Second Word attachment plus PDF annex)

We do not expect the Minister to come to a decision on these submissions overnight, but if she is able to read/skim them ahead of tomorrow's meeting that would be very helpful for both us and the Minister.

In terms of tomorrow's session, we would like to cover:

- Quick introduction to the rest of the POL team
- Network transformation (15 mins)
- Horizon (10 mins)

George, Rob – there is a chance that these issues could prompt media attention in the next few weeks. It might therefore be helpful for SoS / SpAds to have sight of these submissions later this week. We are happy to provide any additional information or background that you think might be helpful. We will of course continue to keep Press Office in the loop on developments, particularly on BBC Panorama.

Many thanks
Laura
