Thanks Rob, do you think we need independent advice?

Susan,
I have read the documentation with interest.

From the draft reply it looks as though the expert has been less than forthcoming. If I am right this is disturbing. I understood that there were a couple of bugs identified that impacted on a limited number of prosecutions which is reflected in the later part of the reply. This is at odds with the sentence "The Second Sight Interim report demonstrates that this was not the case" which sounds as if POL wholesale have been involved in misleading parties to prosecutions. Having no knowledge of the unwritten background I wonder whether this statement can be softened? I appreciate that the report goes onto be more specific in terms of the impact.

Overall the reply covers the responsibilities that need to be covered in the reply and should satisfy the CCRC for the time being. I am sure those inputting to the reply are acting independently and fairly, however as they have also held responsibility in relation to prosecuting offenders there could be questions in relation to independence which could see CCRC wanting to conduct their own investigation.

I am out of the office at the moment but will be viewing emails until Thursday when I will be on A/L so if there is anything specific you would like to discuss please let me know.

Regards,

Rob

Rob - I thought that you should see this letter from the CCRC, I have sent it on to CK and will forward a response they have drafted.

Please let me know if you have any views.

Thanks

Susan
