Chris,

Could I have the appendices referred to in the investigation report as a matter of urgency please.

Thanks,
Angela

Angela

Thank you for your time earlier.

Please find attached PDF copies of the relevant additional documentation contained on the Security file. As discussed, I have been unsuccessful in locating the prosecution files which would have been prepared for the purposes of the criminal proceedings. The documents attached are:-

- The investigation report prepared by the security team;
- The audit report prepared post-audit; and
- The pre-prepared written statement offered by Jo Hamilton prior to her interview under caution. This document is the only document which I have seen which purports to record her version of events. As you know, she was subsequently interviewed under caution but offered "no comment" in response to each and every question.

There are a couple of points raised in her statement which merit further comment:-

- First, her position on the training offered to her seems confused. She states that she was "persuaded" to take over the branch under the direction of a subpostmaster in October 2001. She states that she was offered two weeks of half training days at that point. My understanding was that training was only offered to the subpostmaster and it was responsibility of the subpostmaster to train his or her staff, but this may not be correct. It is, therefore, not clear what training (if any) she would have received in or around 2001. In any event, she states that she did not attend the training offered.
- She refers to the fact that on "one occasion" there was an unexplained error for £1,500 which is alleged to have doubled. She was asked about this error during her interview and said "no comment" in response to when this error was alleged to have occurred and in response to whether or not it was being suggested that this error impacted upon the cash storage identified at audit.
- She refers to the switch to branch training and alleges it was never properly explained to her. Martin Drake has confirmed that the branch was migrated in October 2005. Although no actual visit would have been made to the branch, she would have been provided with an interactive training CD-ROM, a copy of the transition guide, a copy of the quick reference guide, a branch trading calendar and the relevant manuals. She would also have been invited to attend one of the face-to-face events. It was also open to her to request a video copy of the interactive training CD-ROM if she wanted one, but there is no record of her having done so.
- It appears that she did not take the branch trading "grass roots" test. I am not entirely clear whether this is relevant or not. My understanding is that it is voluntary in any event.

I hope the above is helpful. Please let me know if you require anything else.

Kind regards

Chris Darvill
