Subject: RE: NAO - POL litigation enquiries

Tom,

See advice from Richard C and Laura copied below. I don't think we could withhold from the NAO if the requested advice to BNR on Tim's review exists. However it seems it doesn't because the group litigation took over, so we'd have to explain this to the NAO and consider offering the nearest equivalent – ie the sub on the group action that Laura mentions. I'll try to find this and circulate so we can take a collective view on whether to share. The NAO has already told us they won't share correspondence but I can try asking for an outline of what they intend to say. Stephen

Laura: As I recall:

- Tim came in for a meeting with BNR where he gave a verbal update on how things were going – I want to say this was in early 2016, maybe Feb/Mar?
- We provided a sub to BNR on the group action saying that given the litigation POL had decided to close the review and take forward any actions through the litigation, which might give the NAO what they need.

Hopefully the latter sub is in the folder system somewhere – I would guess Mar-Apr 2016 time?

Richard: I don't object to sharing the advice we provided to BNR on this (the NAO can ask for anything they want after all). However I am not sure whether we provided advice to BNR in writing following the review. As you'll remember it sort of petered out although I remember attending a meeting between BNR and Tim P where he outlined the findings (or progress – can't remember off hand).

So, happy to share what we have, but not sure it will be exactly what they have requested. I do however wonder how or why this specific bit of our oversight is relevant in the grand scheme of things.

Stephen,

Thanks for meeting with us last week to discuss the correspondence on the POL case.

We have noted the governance arrangements between UKGI/BEIS and POL including representation on the POL Board and the subcommittee specifically dealing with this issue, engagement between NEDs and ministers and the review of this case performed by the POL chairman at Baroness Neville-Rolfe's request. We plan to respond to the correspondent outlining our engagement with UKGI on this topic, the context of the ongoing legal case and, at a high level, governance arrangements in place. On reflection, to support our response we would like to request a copy of the advice provided to Baroness Neville-Rolfe following the review. Based on our discussions last week, we felt that would be the clearest way for us to obtain evidence to underpin our response.

We will not share this piece of evidence as part of our response or reference it explicitly in the response we draft. Rather it would be to provide us with sufficient assurance to enable us to respond to the correspondence in the manner we have outlined.

Happy to discuss this request, and indeed we would be happy to come over to UKGI to review in hard copy. Grateful if you could let us know when this information could be made available as I appreciate it might not be immediately to hand. We have committed to get back to the correspondent in early December.

Kind regards

James

Hi Declan,

Thanks for coming back to us on this. We'll be very happy to facilitate the meeting for you. Monday or Tuesday should be fine and presumably the sooner the better will be helpful for you given your deadlines. We'll come back to you shortly on precise timing - I'll ask our PAs to check what's possible in the relevant diaries, including whether Tuesday midday onwards is possible given James' other meetings at BEIS.

Regards,

Stephen

I think an initial meeting would be helpful. Helen isn't around next week unfortunately but my director James would like to come if possible.

Availability is a bit tricky as I am out of the office Wednesday-Friday but can be very flexible on Monday and Tuesday. James is understandably very busy but will be at BEIS for other meetings on Tuesday morning and so should be able to attend a meeting starting at midday if that was possible?

Thanks,
Declan

Hi Declan,

Many thanks for your understanding on this matter.

Sending the holding reply to the PAC to allow us time for a considered response is most welcome – perhaps end of next week would be realistic. On the question of how to respond, would an initial meeting with us early next week be helpful? We could convene a mixture of our current team and predecessors with historical knowledge to address your questions and could also explain in more detail the sensitivities around the legal case. We could then follow this up with any documents that might be helpful.

On the question of how the information will be used, thanks for offering to flag the live legal case in your holding response, it would indeed be helpful to flag this and the need to tread carefully so as not to prejudice the legal process. I think the concern here from our perspective would be that this enquiry has been triggered by a complaint from an unknown individual who may simply have read about the case in the newspaper but might equally be somebody with a direct interest in the case. If it were the latter then the PAC passing on our information to that individual would be a concern for us as it might potentially be used in court. A meeting would also give us the chance to discuss our concerns around this.

Let us know how you'd like us to proceed.

Kind regards,

Stephen

Hi Stephen,

Thanks for your email. I appreciate your concerns around the legal case currently being heard and the challenge around the tight time-frame.

On your first point. We will need to provide an initial response to PAC by 21st November and a draft to our Private Office by the end of this week for review. We can send a holding reply indicating we have contacted UKGI/BEIS, are currently discussing and will provide a fuller response in due course. So, I think having next week as a provisional time for receipt of information seems reasonable and happy to agree an extension. I will speak to my manager and director to confirm that is the case.

On your second point. The PAC received an email from an individual outlining the case, expressing concern about the use of public money to defend the current court case and asking PAC to consider looking into it. This was then forwarded to us for follow up. As we are not sufficiently familiar with the case and circumstances to provide a response we have raised the specific questions below to enable us to provide a reply to PAC on the concerns raised (where they relate to our remit around public spending, value for money and governance). These questions are not from the correspondent. I don't think we usually share correspondence and I wouldn't be comfortable doing that without consulting, in any case I don't think will add anything further as the questions are raised by us rather than the correspondent. The fact that the court case is ongoing, making this a delicate topic, is understood and we can make that situation and related concerns clear in our initial holding response to PAC.

I hope that helps provide clarity on those points but Helen or I would be happy to discuss if not.

Thanks,

Declan

Hi Declan,

Many thanks for the additional information. Having discussed the practicalities with colleagues, there are a couple of challenges in fulfilling this request that we'd be grateful for your assistance with.

Firstly, we'd be grateful for an extension to this deadline (preferably until next week) to enable us to provide a full and considered response to all these questions. The historical nature of these questions (the dispute stretches back to 2012 and even the serving of the litigation on POL long predates any members of our team) will require us to conduct significant research and speak to colleagues who were working on this issue previously.

Secondly, we'd be grateful for further clarity over what has triggered the PAC to investigate this matter and how they intend to use the information provided. Perhaps we could have sight of the PAC's letter to you if this explains matters? The reason for our concern is that POL is currently defending this case in the courts (the trial commenced on 5 November), so we'd want to be reassured that any information we provide could not be used in any way that might prejudice this legal process. For example, in the past, some of the claimants have used indirect methods – eg FOI requests or via MPs – to 'fish' for information that might strengthen their legal case (disguised as simple information requests on specific issues without reference to the litigation or to the claimants).

I hope you can help us on these points.

Regards,

Stephen

Hi Stephen,

The questions are the result of correspondence received by the NAO from PAC which related to POL's decision to legally pursue and prosecute some sub-postmasters and to defend the group litigation brought against it by a group of sub-postmasters.

Following the receipt of this correspondence, we have conducted our own preliminary enquiries online which have guided the questions. Particularly taking into account our remit in relation to public spending and value for money.

Thanks,
Declan

Subject: NAO - POL litigation enquiries

Hello all,

I'm following up on the call this morning between Tom and Helen, with our queries around the Post Office Limited (POL) litigation with sub-postmasters that is currently ongoing.

I've detailed our queries below, if it is possible for you to respond by the end of the tomorrow (Wednesday 14th) that would be appreciated as timelines are always tight around responding to correspondence.

- Can you clarify whether POL follow 'Managing Public Money'? As they operate under the Companies Act 2006 legislation they are not obliged to, but we are aware of similar bodies where framework agreements between themselves and their sponsoring departments require that they follow it.
- Through initial research we have an idea of events leading up to the litigation (shortfalls at sub postmaster level, pursuit and legal prosecution, mediation, group litigation) but it would be very helpful to have a high level timeline of events to make sure our understanding is correct. It would also be helpful to understand BEIS/UKGI oversight or engagement with POL over the course of these events and how BEIS/UKGI gained sufficient assurance that POL was operating in a way that represented value for money.

Specifically:

- What was UKGI/BEIS' involvement in the decision making process that POL went through in deciding to respond to the litigation?

Could you please provide the any supporting papers, such as board minutes, which evidence this?

- As part of our initial scoping we identified that, although the interim Second Sight report was available on the post office website, along with a report from POL concluding on this, we were unable to access the confidential final report via the post office website. We did however find a copy on a journalist website claiming to be the confidential final report. See here: <http://becarefulwhatyouwishfornickwallis.blogspot.com/2015/04/exclusive-second-sight-final-report-in.html>
 - Please could we confirm that report is legitimate?
 - Could you please inform us as to how BEIS/UKGI responded to the reports and whether any conclusions from those reports factored in to the decision making process to respond to the litigation?

- To what extent did BEIS/UKGI have oversight of the mediation scheme?

Kind Regards,
Declan
