I agree, and it appears we will have two opportunities to respond on this. However, I would like us to make as many points as we can whilst also reserving the right to come back later on this at what second sight have badged the 'representations' stage.

But in view of the fact that this is also with JFSA I want to make sure that we have as many as our facts as necessary in the unlikely event that this does get out into the public domain.

Best wishes
Belinda

Belinda

I have emailed you separately about a couple of points but I also am concerned that we have only 24/48 hours to respond to factual inaccuracies. This does not seem reasonable to me. Can we get an extension please?

Many thanks

Kind Regards

Please see attached from Second Sight. We have 48 hrs for an initial response although it would appear that we will also have another opportunity to 'make representations'. I am sure that we would want to also make representations but it would be helpful if we could knock off as many factual points as we can at the first stage. I have not yet checked whether this is significantly different to the earlier draft I circulated but wanted to give you an opportunity to see it as early as possible.

The report covers a lot of areas, many of which we have already commented on. Angela and Andy Parsons have already got a lot of the information we require on some of the technical issues and Andy Parsons is pulling together the response which we will all have an opportunity to clear. I will also consider with others here about the best way to actually position our response.

You will also see that this document has been sent to JFSA simultaneously. Although it is unlikely that JFSA would pass this outside of the Working Group we must have our response ready as soon as possible in case it is needed.

Best wishes

Belinda

Belinda and Allan

I attach a copy of our 5 August draft of our Part 2 Report.

This is being released to you for 24 hours in order for you to comment on any factual errors contained within. It will then be updated and formally released to both POL and JFSA in order that any further representations can be made, prior to it being finalised and then released to the Working Group and to Applicants.

With best wishes
