Hello Andy,

I'm out the office today but have had a look on my iPhone. Seems to reflect our understanding, although I'm not sure we got to the bottom of whether balancing transactions were available pre Horizon online.

I should be grateful if could review the attached very short document, which will form part of our response to the Letter of Claim. It addresses a very specific point around Post Office's / Fujitsu's capability to change branch data (which overlaps with your work).

Apologies for the short notice but please could you again come back with any comments by close tomorrow.

Kind regards
Andy
