David – draft response to SWL.

Dear Stephen,

Thank you for your recent email; we were equally disappointed to miss the planned exit deadline, however, I am delighted that we achieved agreement to exit Red Alert on Wednesday 14th November. This achievement was down to real team work from both our organisations and has engendered a culture of trust upon which we can build. It now only remains for the RMG Account team to conclude a mutually acceptable commercial position with your procurement department, which I understand is well underway.

To mark this turning point in Project Light and our relationship with RMG, Ian Terblanche will be arranging a social event where both teams can relax and deepen our relationship.
